

Soul misses twin

Music & Words by Claas Fischer

1.

My light is dim, my aura's faint
Because it's lacking your paint.

My tunes are rough, my music's noise,
It needs the melody of your voice.

My breath is heavy, my life is blue,
Happiness is far, happiness is you.

Chorus:

Love is everywhere I go but see
Love is all around, all around but me.

2.

My neck is stiff, my back is bent,
It needs the softness of your hand.

No cards, no checker, the runes are dead,
No walk, no talk, no cosy bed.

No feeling so high, no peace so deep;
Wish I could see you in your sleep.

No pool at night, no cooking at noon,
No hot tub under the yellow moon.

My walls are high, my self's unfree,
My doors are locked, you got the key.

No dance, no battle, no touch, no fight,
No smile for the day, no hug for the night.

Chorus

3.

Magic's forgotten, love seems untrue.
My dreams are bad - they're not about you.

Without your challenge there's no need to dare,
Without your trust there's no way to be bare.

My day is empty, my blood of stone,
My heart of ice, my soul alone.

Chorus
